

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

There is provided a method and apparatus for guiding an intersection in a navigation system, which is capable of efficiently creating an arrow that indicates an intersection turn guide. The method of the present invention includes the steps of: checking an intersection network to create a predetermined intersection based on a vehicle position information; creating a turn guide arrow to be displayed on the intersection; and simultaneously displaying the intersection and the turn guide arrow created thereon.